I. OFFICIAL DOCUMENTS

Votes and Proceedings of the Queensland Legislative Assembly: 'Police Commissioners' Reports' in Votes and Proceedings of the Queensland Legislative Assembly, 1860-1875. These often indicate areas of conflict and the distribution and actions of the Native Police Force.

'Alleged Massacre of Blacks at the Morinish Diggings - June 1867' in Votes and Proceedings of the Queensland Legislative Assembly, 1867. As well as indicating the nature of Native Police work, there is a copy of 'Instructions to Native Police Officers'.

'Alleged Outrages on Aborigines in Queensland by the Native Police' in Votes and Proceedings of the Queensland Legislative Assembly, 1875. Some commentary on Bowen District as well as an illustration of how the British Government impinged on Queensland Native Policy.

'Report of the Commissioner of Police for the Year 1896' in Votes and Proceedings of the Queensland Legislative Assembly, 1897, Volume II. This gives a report on North Queensland Aborigines as well as a retrospective comment on the Native Police.
Queensland Parliamentary Debates, Volume LXXVIII, 1897.

'Debate on Aboriginal Protection and Restriction of Sale of Opium Bill'.
Good retrospective accounts of Queensland Native Policy.

In the Queensland State Archives:

In-letters to the Colonial Secretary 1860-1875.

Monthly Returns of Native Police Force in Colonial Secretary's Files.
These are by no means complete for the period but the few, still extant, indicate movement of detachments in the Bowen District over important periods of time, e.g. 1 July 1863; 31 December 1864;
31 December 1865; 31 August 1868.

'Report on the State of the Native Mounted Police Force'. Commandant to Colonial Secretary, COL/A4, 859B of 1860.

Ordinary Despatches from the Governor of Queensland to the Secretary of State for the Colonies in England.
References to Aborigines are most frequent from Governor Bowen.

Ordinary Despatches from the Secretary of State for Colonies to the Governor of Queensland.

Confidential Despatches from the Secretary of State, From 1 May 1868 to 22 December 1867, GOV/11.
A few indications of British Government's concern for Queensland's Native Police and the Native Police.

Letterbook of Miscellaneous Letters, 2 January 1868-
28 December 1870. Q.S.A. Accession Number 48/1816.

II. NEWSPAPERS

Port Denison Times, Bowen. 5 March 1864-December 1875;
1896; 1897. Originals at Council Chambers, Bowen.
Microfilm at James Cook University, Townsville.
In Files on Aborigines at Newstead House, Brisbane:

Queensland Register, 28 September 1929.

Australian Aborigines Newspaper Cuttings, Oxley Library, Brisbane.
Newspaper Cuttings Enclosed in Letters to the Colonial Secretary in the Queensland State Archives.

III. CONTEMPORARY SOURCES

Adams, D. (Ed.) The Letters of Rachel Henning. Sydney, 1954. An interesting picture of pioneering in the Bowen district which, however, makes very little mention of Aborigines or the squatters' dealings with them probably because the women saw very little of this aspect of frontier life.

Bowen Historical Society The Story of James Morrill. Bowen, 1964. This pamphlet was compiled by the Bowen Independent from Morrill's own account narrated to Brisbane journalist, R. Johns. A unique description of the Aborigines between Cape Cleveland and Port Denison by a man who lived with them for seventeen years before European settlement.

One of the few detailed accounts of a 'dispersal' by someone who had participated.

Cunningham, M.W.  'The Pioneering of the River Burdekin'. Original in the possession of Mr. E. Cunningham, Strathmore Station, Collinsville, Queensland. Dr. Farnfield, James Cook University, has a copy. This article contains some factual errors of the early settlement at Bowen but gives a good and, seemingly, faithful impression of pioneering.

Kennedy, E.B. Four Years in Queensland. London, 1870. The ex-Native Police Officer reveals his contempt for the Aborigines in a chapter devoted to them. A more informative book than his The Black Police of Queensland, possibly because it was published while his experiences were fresh in his mind.

Leichhardt, L. Overland Expedition from Moreton Bay to Port Essington. London, 1847.
Ratzel, F.

Sadleir, R.

Thorne, E.
An Eight Years' Resident

IV. LATER WORKS

Abbie, A.A.

Banton, M.
Race Relations. London, 1967. Describes why racial conflict has cut so deep into human relationships, identifies the nature of racial friction, and analyses its elements.

Bennett, M.M.
Christison of Lammermoor. London, 1927. A very well written account of pastoral pioneering. The author, Christison's daughter, devotes a great deal of attention to the treatment of the Aborigines and describes how her father was able to come to a bloodless understanding with his Aborigines. The book does not deal specifically with the Bowen district.

Bernays, C.A.
Queensland Politics during Sixty Years. Brisbane, 1919. Most important, probably, for brief political biographies.

Berndt, R.M. and C.H. (Eds.)
Berndt, R.M. and C.H.
The World of the First Australians: An Introduction to the Traditional Life of the Australian Aborigines.
Sydney, 1964.

Black, J.
(Compiled)
North Queensland Pioneers. Charters Towers,1931
Biographies of early squatting families.

Bleakley, J.W.
The Aborigines of Australia.
Brisbane, 1961.

Bolton, G.C.
Richard Daintree.
Brisbane, 1965.
A pioneer squatter near Charters Towers who has left some valuable photographs of North Queensland.

A Thousand Miles Away: A History of North Queensland to 1920.
Brisbane, 1963.

Bowen Historical Society.
Newspaper History at Bowen, N.Q., 1864-1969.
* Bowen, 1969*
Gives details of the personnel, styles, policies, and some of the important issues joined.

Brown, R.
The Races of Mankind: Being a Popular Description of the Characteristics, Manners, and Customs of the Principal Varieties of the Human Family.
London, 1873-1876.
An illustration of late nineteenth century European opinion of the Aborigines.

Chapman, E.C.
Longmans Australian Geographies: North Queensland.
Melbourne, 1963.

Chisholm, A.H.
(Ed.)
The Australian Encyclopaedia, Volume I.
Sydney, 1965.

Christian, C.S.
(et. al.)
Survey of Townsville-Bowen Region, 1950.
Melbourne, 1953.
An appraisal of land use and potential development.

An important regional study describing a most important, if unsuccessful, attempt to solve the problem of racial contact.

Delamothe, P. Bowen's First Hundred Years. Bowen, Undated.
Contains a brief mention of Bowen Aborigines.

Department of Territories The Australian Aborigines. Sydney, 1967.

This book abstracts the problems encountered.

Important for the early history of Bowen and the expansion of settlement in the Kennedy district.

The problem is abstracted and explained.

A good but sketchy introduction to the subject.
Government of Queensland Authority

Hasluck, P. Black Australians. A Survey of Native Policy in Western Australia, 1829-1892. Melbourne, 1942. An account of Aboriginal-European relations while the policy was still the responsibility of the British Government.

Jack, R.L. Northmost Australia, 2 Volumes. London, 1921. Useful summaries of the most important explorations in far north Australia.

Kiernan, V.G. The Lords of Human Kind: European attitudes towards the outside world in the Imperial Age. London, 1969. Impressions and opinions of Europeans and non-Europeans about one another in the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries.

Meston, A. Geographic History of Queensland. London, 1895. A sketchy account of geography and history of Queensland, giving very brief accounts of the Aborigines, the Queensland Missions to Aborigines, and the Native Police.

Palmer, E. Early Days in North Queensland. Sydney, 1903. A detailed description of pastoral expansion which is partly autobiographical.

Pitt-Rivers, G.H. The Clash of Culture and the Contact of Races. London, 1927. He stressed the physical reasons for the decline of native peoples.
A comparative study which makes a good introduction to the subject.

In the 'Foreword' W.E.H. Stanner calls for a new history of Australia to include the Aborigines. He points out how aborigines remember past injustice.

He emphasizes the continuing destructiveness of the European invasion upon the Aborigines and the continuing extinction of tribes and tribal life.

Tindale, N.B.  'Distribution of Australian Aboriginal Tribes' in Transactions of the Royal Society of South Australia, 64. 1940.
The most authoritative work of this kind. Soon to be revised. Contains a map of tribal distribution.

Miscellaneous Discussion with people who live in or know the area and have described various items of historical interest which still exist.
