Imagination

Three Models of

Imagination in the Age of the Knowledge Economy

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

SIMON MARGINSON is Professor of Higher Education in the Graduate School of Education at the University of Melbourne, Australia, where he works in that University's Centre for the Study of Higher Education. He has held continuous Australian Research Council project funding since 1995, was elected as Fellow of the Academy of Social Sciences, Australia in 2000, designated an Australian Research Council Australian Professorial Fellow in 2002, and an Honorary Fellow of the Society for Research in Higher Education UK in 2005.

He was awarded the Outstanding Publications Award of the American Educational Research Association Division J, for 2001 (with Mark Considine) and the George Z. F. Bereday award for the best journal article of 2001, Comparative and International Education Society, in 2002 (with Marcela Mollis) and the Woodward Medal at the University of Melbourne as the outstanding scholar in the humanities and social sciences (2008). He works on problems of higher education and education policy, comparative and international education, studies of globalization, and the knowledge economy and creativity. Simon is active in scholarly circles in the Asia-Pacific, Europe, and North America and Mexico; has provided advice on higher education and globalization for the governments of Australia, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Vietnam and New Zealand, and several policy papers for OECD; is frequently called on to provide papers on university comparison and ranking; and is active in media commentary on higher education.

He is a member of the Editorial Board of Times Higher Education and also Educational Researcher, the Journal of Higher Education, Higher Education, Higher Education Quarterly, Thesis Eleven, the ASHE Reader on Comparative Education, Critical Studies in Education, Higher Education Policy, the Journal of Education and Work, Journal of South East Asian Education, Asia-Pacific Journal of Education and the Journal of Higher Education. He edited the Australian Journal of Education from 1995–2000. Simon has published about 200 scholarly articles, reviews and chapters; and three edited books and 11 sole authored or jointly authored books, including Markets in Education (1997), The Enterprise University (with Mark Considine, 2000), Prospects of Higher Education (2007), Creativity in the Global Knowledge Economy (with Michael Peters and Peter Murphy, published by Peter Lang 2009), Global Creation: Space, mobility and synchrony in the age of the knowledge economy (with Peter Murphy and Michael Peters, Peter Lang, 2010) and International Student Security (with Chris Nyland, Erlenawati Sawir and Helen Forbes-Mewett, Cambridge University Press, 2010).

Five of his books have been published in China including an original collection of papers on higher education and globalization (translated by Li Mei, Peking University Press, forthcoming).

PETER MURPHY is Associate Professor of Communications and Director of the Social Aesthetics Research Unit at Monash University, Australia. He is co-author of Global Creation (Peter Lang, 2009), Creativity and the Global Knowledge Economy (Peter Lang, 2009), Dialectic of Romanticism: A Critique of Modernism (Continuum, 2004), and author of Civic Justice: From Greek Antiquity to the Modern World (Prometheus/Humanity Books, 2001). He has co-edited Philosophical and Cultural Theories of Music (Brill, forthcoming), Agon, Logos, Polis (Franz Steiner, 2000) and The Left in Search of a Center (University of Illinois Press, 1996) and is the editor of special issues of Empedocles: European Journal for the Philosophy of Communication on Paradox (Intellect, forthcoming) and South Atlantic Quarterly on Friendship (Duke University Press, 1998).

His body of work includes more than seventy journal articles and chapters in edited collections. He has been research fellow and visiting professor of philosophy in the Graduate Faculty of the New School for Social Research in New York City; visiting scholar in the Hellenic language and literatures programme at the Ohio State University; visiting scholar at Panteion University in Athens, Greece; visiting professor in political science at Baylor University, Texas; director of the master of communications programme at Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand; visiting research fellow in philosophy at Ateneo de Manila University in the Philippines; and visiting professor in communications and media studies at Seoul National University, South Korea, and in the Department of Arts and Cultural Studies at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark.

He is coordinating editor of Thesis Eleven: Critical Theory and Historical Sociology (Sage), and from 1998 to 2001 he worked in senior editorial roles for Australia's most successful Internet start-up company, Looksmart.

MICHAEL A. PETERS is Professor of Education in the Department of Educational Policy Studies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and holds a position as Adjunct Professor at the Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology in the School of Art and at Guangzhou University, China. He held joint professorial positions at the Universities of Auckland (NZ) and Glasgow (UK) during 2000–2005. He was elected Academic Vice-President of the New Zealand Association of University Teachers, elected an inaugural Fellow of the New Zealand Academy of Humanities, awarded Senior Scholar at the University of Illinois and elected a member of the Royal Society of New Zealand.

He is the executive editor of Educational Philosophy and Theory (Wiley-Blackwell) and editor of two international e-journals, Policy Futures in Education and E-Learning (Symposium). His interests focus broadly on education, philosophy, and social theory and he has written some forty books and many academic papers, including most recently: Creativity and the Global Knowledge Economy and Global Creation (Peter Lang, 2009) with Simon Marginson and Peter Murphy; Showing and Doing: Wittgenstein as a Pedagogical Philosopher (Paradigm, 2008) with Nick Burbules and Paul Smeyers; Global Knowledge Cultures (Sense) with Cushla Kapitzke; Subjectivity and Truth: Foucault, Education, and The Culture of Self (Peter Lang, 2008) (AESAs Book Prize, 2009), Why Foucault? New Directions in Educational Research (Peter Lang, 2007), and Building Knowledge Cultures: Educational and Development in the Age of Knowledge Capitalism (Rowman & Littlefield, 2006), all with Tina Besley.
